

Purdue Climate Change Research Center (PCCRC)

The Purdue Climate Change Research Center mission is to increase scientific and public understanding of the causes and consequences of climate change through interdisciplinary research and effective education and outreach. We are committed to science-based, non-partisan, and collaborative analysis to support real-world decision making from the local to the global scales.

Purdue Climate Change Research Center

Website: <https://ag.purdue.edu/climate/>

Email: pccrc@purdue.edu

Featured PCCRC Resources

Indiana Climate Change Impacts Assessment (IN CCIA)

The IN CCIA is a collection of plain-language reports designed to help decision makers, professionals, and residents increase their awareness about the current and future threats of climate change for Indiana.

Website: <https://ag.purdue.edu/indianaclimate/>

PCCRC Research Roundup

The PCCRC Research Roundup is a bimonthly (every 2 months) collection of the latest climate change science from Purdue University researchers.

View latest issue: <https://bit.ly/3fOqUXf>

Join our email list: <https://ag.purdue.edu/climate/research-briefs/#signup>

Climate Change Basics

How do we know climate change is happening? What's causing our climate to change? Do scientists agree? Find answers to these questions and more.

Webpage: <https://ag.purdue.edu/climate/climate-challenges/>

Resources for Educators

This webpage includes a review of five critical topics that every student should learn and every adult should understand about climate change. It also includes access to professional development materials, classroom activities, climate action tips, and more.

Webpage: <https://ag.purdue.edu/climate/education/for-k-12-teachers/>