

GOVERNMENT INFORMATION DAY 2024

FRIDAY, MAY 17, 2024

Indiana State Library
315 West Ohio Street
Indianapolis, Indiana

WELCOME MESSAGE FROM

STATE LIBRARIAN: JAKE SPEER

Welcome to the 2024 Government Information Day (GID24) conference at the Indiana State Library. GID24 marks the sixth government information themed conference at ISL. I would like to welcome all attendees, virtual and in-person, to the library.

We are pleased to welcome Scott Matheson, Superintendent of Documents, from the U.S. Government Publishing Office (GPO) to deliver this year's keynote address. As GPO transitions to a Digital FDLP, Scott brings his perspective on how libraries are adapting to the changes in ways that the public consumes information and the evolving role of librarians and libraries in the information ecosystem.

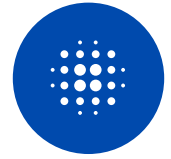

Our hope is that today's sessions provide both interesting and relevant information for you, your library, and your community. I also would like to thank the planning committee, conference speakers, exhibitors, and volunteers. Only with their efforts can we organize such an outstanding event for everyone. During your visit, be sure to explore our beautiful historic building, including the Indiana Young Readers Center and the Statehouse Education Center. Thank you again for attending, and I hope you enjoy your day with us at the Indiana State Library.

Jacob Speer, State Librarian

SCOTT MATHESON, SUPERINTENDENT OF DOCUMENTS

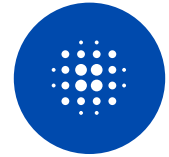

Scott Matheson joined the U.S. Government Publishing Office (GPO) in October 2022 from Yale University. He has over twenty years of experience as member of and working with the library community. He began his career as the Depository Coordinator at the Lillian Goldman Law Library at Yale Law School then worked at the University of Colorado before returning to Yale University Library. More recently, he served as Associate Law Librarian for Technical Services at the Lillian Goldman Law Library, commonly known as the Yale Law Library.

He is active in professional associations and has worked with the Preserving Electronic Government Information Project, which aims to ensure that “born-digital” web-based public information is preserved for future researchers. Matheson taught Government information for seven years at the University of Illinois’ Library School and represented the library community on GPO’s Depository Library Council, serving as chair from 2016–2017. He served on the Director’s Task Force on a Digital Federal Depository Library Program, which will make recommendations on the evolution of this flagship public information program.

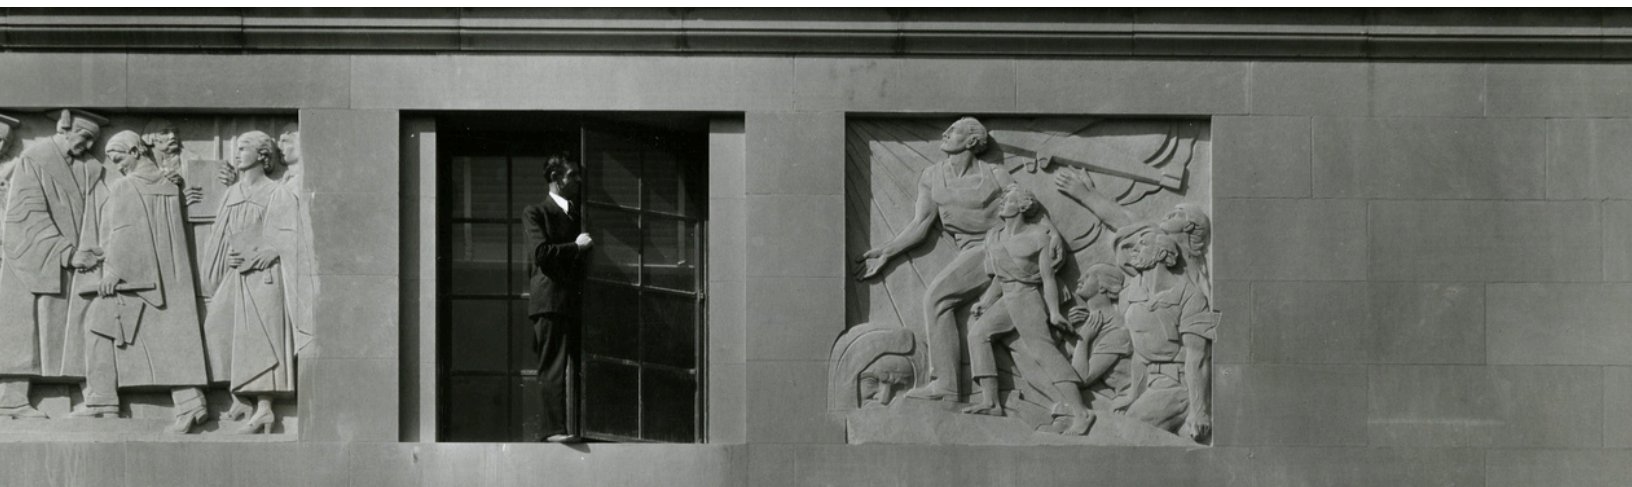

Matheson studied journalism at the University of Alaska and earned Law and Library degrees from the University of Washington and a Master’s in Public Administration from the University of Connecticut.

ESCAPE ROOMS, THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS AND YOU!*

The Indiana Young Readers Center is proud to announce new kits available for check-out to Indiana's teachers and librarians. Indiana Escape Rooms (in a box!) focus on Indiana history, build on primary resources from the Library of Congress, and were developed with the help of a Teaching with Primary Sources Grant. Join this session to learn all about the kits, the TPS Grant, and the fantastic primary sources that await you in the Library of Congress' collections. (*Hybrid Session)

Starts at
1:30 PM

GPO'S COLLABORATIONS: INCREASING ACCESS TO AND PRESERVATION OF THE NATIONAL COLLECTION OF U.S. GOVERNMENT PUBLIC INFORMATION*

The National Collection of U.S. Government Public Information is a geographically dispersed collection of Federal Government public information that is accessible to the public at no cost. No single Federal agency or library is able to preserve and provide access to this massive collection of information. The U.S. Government Publishing Office utilizes various collaborations as tools to ensure the preservation of the National Collection and its ongoing accessibility. This presentation will share a brief history of GPO collaborations, the types of collaborations, and how they help to increase accessibility to the National Collection for all users. (*Hybrid Session)

Starts at

BEHIND THE SCENES BUILDING TOUR

Go behind the scenes at the Indiana State Library and tour the library's closed areas. Attendees will be able to see the inner workings of the library, including the closed stacks, vault, conservation lab, and more. Tour will take approximately 45 minutes and requires walking up and down stairs.

Starts at
